

1. Write a stored procedure to print "Hello World".
2. Create a stored procedure that returns all employees first and last names for whose yearly salary is above 5000.
3. Create a stored procedure that accepts a number as parameter and return all employees whose salary is above or equal to the given number.
4. Write a stored procedure that accept string as parameter and returns all city names starting with that string
5. Write a stored procedure that inserts a new employee and validates that the job ID exists, and the salary is between the job min and max salary
6. Write a stored procedure to print from 1 to n if $n > 0$, otherwise it should print 'INVALID'